

To compete with Goliath, David used a slingshot.

I rely on a business airplane.

Brad Pierce, CEO
Restaurant Equipment World

For small businesses to succeed, they must be nimble, efficient, and in constant contact with customers and prospects. Brad Pierce, CEO of Restaurant Equipment World, uses business airplanes to go more places and meet more people in less time than his larger competitors. In a David v. Goliath environment, this is Pierce's competitive edge. And just one more way that business aviation is at work for America. Noplanenogain.org
